中国古代和当代的婚恋

Love and Marriage in Ancient and Contemporary China

在古代中国,年轻人的婚姻常常是由父母决定的。在结婚前,男女双方一般很少见面,大多是由媒人根据双方的家庭背景、经济条件等,介绍门当户对的男女双方认识,然后由双方家长决定儿女的婚姻大事。所以,古代的年轻人没有挑选的自由,经常是听从父母之命、媒妁之言。即使能够自由恋爱,也往往会酿成悲剧。但是,在当代中国,年轻人一般都是自由恋爱的。在大学校园里、大街上,经常可以看到一对对的情侣。如果两人没见过面就结婚,简直就是不可思议的事情。

In ancient China, marriages of the young people are often decided by their parents. Normally, the man and the woman rarely meet before getting married. In most cases, considered to be well matched for marriage, they are introduced to each other by a matchmaker, based on their family backgrounds, economic conditions, etc. After their parents approve, the marriage is finally arranged. Therefore, the Chinese young people in ancient times often have no freedom to choose their own husbands or wives, but to obey the arrangements of their parents and follow the words of the matchmaker. Even though some of them are lucky enough to be in love with the one of their own choice, it usually ends in tragedy. However, in contemporary China, the young people usually can choose their boyfriend or girlfriend without interference from their families. Pairs of lovers can often be seen almost everywhere, on campus, in the street, etc. Nowadays, it is incredible in China if a man and a woman get married without seeing each other before.
